Prairie Dawg's Old West Chronicles

A Compendium of Useful Information

July, 2024

Old West Boomtowns/Ghost Towns

South Pass City, Montana

South Pass City is an unincorporated community in Fremont County, Wyoming. It is located 2 miles south of the intersection of highways 28 and 131. A former station on the Oregon Trail, it became a ghost town after later gold mines were closed. The entire community is listed on the National Register of Historic Places. The closest town is Atlantic City South Pass City is a popular pit stop for hikers to take a “lode” off along the Continental Divide National Scenic Trail. South Pass City is one of Wyoming’s most highly trafficked Old West ghost towns. Like any decent ghost town, South Pass City is miles from civilization down a lonely dirt road.

History:

South Pass City developed rapidly as a stage and telegraph station on the Oregon

Trail, during the 1850s. The site of the first settlement in the area was about 9 miles south of present-day South Pass City, at what is today known as Burnt Ranch. Burnt Ranch was located where the Emigrant Trails crossed the Sweetwater River for the last time, and ascended toward the South Pass.

In August 1861, 25-year-old Samuel Clemens (AKA Mark Twain) passed through South Pass City via stagecoach with his brother Orion, newly appointed as Secretary of Nevada Territory.

Mark Twain later wrote about the experience in Roughing It, first published in 1872:

"... we hove in sight of South Pass City. The hotelkeeper, the postmaster, the blacksmith, the mayor, the constable, the city marshal and the principal citizen and property holder, all came out and greeted us cheerily, and we gave him good day. He gave us a little Indian news, and a little Rocky Mountain news, and we gave him some Plains information in return. He then retired to his lonely grandeur and we climbed on up among the bristling peaks and the ragged clouds. South Pass City consisted of four log cabins, one of which was unfinished, and the gentleman with all those offices and titles was the chiefest of the ten citizens of the place. Think of hotelkeeper, postmaster, blacksmith, mayor, constable, city marshal and principal citizen all condensed into one person and crammed into one skin. [Fellow passenger] Bemis said he was 'a perfect Allen's revolver of dignities.' [The Allen was a small revolver notorious for sometimes firing all six chambers at once, according to Mark Twain.] And he said that if he were to die as postmaster, or as blacksmith, or as postmaster and blacksmith both, the people might stand it; but if he were to die all over, it would be a frightful loss to the community."

In 1867, gold was discovered in the vicinity, and a year later prospecting began on what would become the Carissa mine. Prospectors and adventurers quickly arrived, and founded South Pass City. Within a year, the community's population had swelled to about 2,000.

William H. Bright, a saloon owner, who was elected to the Wyoming Territorial Legislature and served as President of the Territorial Council, introduced a women's suffrage bill, which passed. When the Women's Suffrage Act was signed into law by Territorial Governor John A. Campbell on December 10, 1869, Wyoming became the first jurisdiction in the United States to grant women the right to vote, a right which was not granted women nationally until 1920.

Esther Hobart Morris became the first female justice of the peace in the United States in 1870.

She began her tenure as justice in South Pass City on February 14, 1870, serving a term of nearly 9 months.

The Sweetwater County Board of County Commissioners appointed Morris as justice of the peace, after the previous justice, R.S. Barr, resigned in protest of Wyoming Territory's passage of the women's suffrage amendment in December 1869.

Within a decade, the city's population shrank dramatically, as the large gold deposits that had been hoped for failed to materialize. By the mid-1870s, South Pass City's population was reduced to about 100 people, but apparently grew to 180 by 1901. Over the next century, the population of South Pass City declined even further. Many of the city's homes, mercantile stores, hotels and saloons fell into disrepair. A few businesses continued to operate in South Pass City, with the last of the pioneer families finally moving out in 1949.

South Pass City State Historic Site:

By the end of the 20th century, steps were being taken to renew the community, and to develop it as an historic site for destination tourism.

The community in the early 21st century consists of two areas: South Pass City, in which a handful of residents live, and South Pass City State Historic Site, which preserves more than 30 historic structures, dating from the city's heyday in the 1860s and 1870s.

In 1970, the community was added to the National Register of Historic Places.

The town has been extensively documented by the Historic American Buildings Survey (HABS) in drawings and in photographs, by HABS photographer Jack Boucher.

In 2003, the Wyoming State Legislature purchased the Carissa Mine, and added the property to the South Pass City State Historic Site. The Carissa Mine was the main economic engine for South Pass City for many years. Wyoming State Parks partnered with the Abandoned Mine Lands division of the Department of Environmental Quality, to remediate mine hazards and stabilize buildings. Additional support from the Wyoming State Legislature and organizations, like the Friends of South Pass City, have raised funds for restoration and exhibition of the mine. Today the mine buildings can be toured with demonstrations of historic mining and milling equipment.

News & Notes

Six Stages

We shoot six stages at Tusco. A few people have told us that they drive a good distance to shoot at Tusco and would like to shoot as much as possible.

Obviously we only have room for five shooting bays. So what we do is shoot the first stage you start on twice. Consider it a warm up stage. Only five stages will be scored. You can take your best time on your first stage. If you don't want to shoot it twice you do not have to. This would provide more shooting for our shooters.

New SASS Magazine

With the new release of the SASS Quarterly Cowboy Chronicle, I once again would like to start collecting any unwanted issues of the magazine. We will use these for our promotional events, like our Tusco Long Riders' Day at Kames Sports. Please either black out or cut off your name and address or I will do it before they are passed out. Thank you!

Facebook Page

When you make a post about Tusco or share pictures on Facebook, include #TuscoLongRiders. Let everyone see what we are all about.

A little bit about us

Jim & I have always wanted a family of our own. Although we love our 5 fur kids, we long for a baby. After learning we were unable to conceive a child, Jim and I decided to pursue the adoption of a newborn. Adoption costs are astronomical (anywhere from 25k to 50k or higher) and although we were able to raise some with our savings, GoFundMe page, and church donations, we are still lacking the funds needed to apply for a match. We decided to take our love of crafting and open a side business to hopefully raise some more funds for our future family. Designs By Scamper is a tribute to our pup Scamper who passed away in 2015 from cancer.
